CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—In search of "atmosphere" and getting plenty of it in assorted varieties, Countess Elsa Bernadotte, granddaughter of King Gustav V. of Sweden, is working in a hide factory, her job being in a leather loft where tanned hides are cut by power machines into the desired shapes for sewing. It's the same task all day long, arms moving like machinery, at which many girls in Chicago grow old.

The Countess, who until the last few years has never been allowed to travel about alone, is sitting opposite Polish leather worker, guiding him great sheets of hides past a flying little knife. For variety she stamps number on each hide.

She gets $18 a week doing it, and in the evening she goes home to a little room not far from the factory to sleep.

She is carrying on her experiment in realistic fashion. She has not called on Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick nor Charles F. Peterson, nor any of her other friends interested in the experiment, nor will she hunt up any of them until she has given up her job.

By that time the countess will know how Rosa Rosinsky makes a living, what she does with her earnings, how she manages to get along on $18 a week. She'll be able to tell the members of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. just how a girl feels about amusements, church, silk stockings and good times, after she has bent for nine hours a day over an endless expanse of moving cowhides.

Her father, Prince Oscar, is president of the Swedish Y. M. C. A., and his daughter has devoted her life to philanthropic work. This is her first taste of the life the other half endures. She came to America to attend a Y. W. C. A. convention in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wine are proud parents of an 8 1/2 pound baby girl born Wednesday at the Santa Ana Community hospital. The little miss was named Betty Jean.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Marshburn and Miss Hazel Barnett motored to San Diego Saturday. Miss Barnett is attending the summer session of the San Diego Teacher's college, which is beginning this week.

This double barraged offensive against the two old party lineups is calculated to emphasize vigorously the federation's endorsement of La Follette, the Independent candidate.

The statement against Dawes was issued this morning by Matthew Woll, spokesman for Gompers.

The women of the local mission society met at the school house Thursday for an all day sewing and pot luck dinner at noon. All the women enjoyed a very pleasant time and had a considerable amount done to show for the day's work. It is the plan to make these all day sewings a monthly affair and anyone having sewing they wish done should get in touch with the society. Those present were Mesdames W. Townsend, E. J. Marion, Clara Hodson, Elmira Dozier, Lena McCollum, Doris Grey, Margaret Carter, Frances Bartley, Pearl Read, Alice Bingley, Bert Hodson, George Dillard.

Mrs. John Helming was a hostess to a delightful dinner party Thursday evening. After a very delicious dinner the group spent a pleasant evening renewing old acquaintances. Those enjoying this evening were Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kent and daughter Eleanor, and Rev. Homer Kent of Long Beach, Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Tay of La Verne, and Rev. and Mrs. Ray Carter. Rev. Fay and Rev. Kent have just returned from the Near East. They were with a famous archaeological expedition under the direction of Melvin Kyle.

Woll also said that the Republican party by nominating Dawes "accepts and endorses his peculiar views—his championship of the divine right of judges to do as they please with union men."

The criticism of Dawes is much more bitter than made of Davis by Gompers. Gompers denied Davis had anything to do with inspiring the Clayton act, or settling the railroad strike, as Democratic leaders contend.

CLAIMS SPOUSE GAVE LIQUOR TO BABY

That Edgar Boles, Gardner Grove oil worker, not only got drunk himself but gave liquor to his year-old son until the baby was drunk, was the accusation hurled from the witness stand to day in the superior court, where Boles was defendant in a divorce suit brought by his wife, Lenore Boles.

Mrs. Carrie Cummings, Boles' mother-in-law, made the startling statement while testifying on her daughter's behalf before Judge F. C. Drumm.

Mrs. Boles also testified, declaring that her husband drank frequently and beat her on several occasions. One of these, she said, was when she went to Signal Hill, where Boles was employed, to see why he had not come home from work. He abused her, she testified, and finally assaulted her, choking her until fellow workmen pulled him away.

Charles Brown, another oil worker, corroborated her statements regarding the "scenes" at Signal Hill, which he said he witnessed.

On cross-examination by Attorney Kenneth Burns, representing Boles, Mrs. Boles admitted that a man named Cole had occasionally visited her home during her husband's absence, but denied that he came frequently, or had ever been inside the house.

"He only came to the door and inquired how the children were getting along," she testified.

Mrs. Cummings testified that she had once seen marks of discoloration on her daughter's cheeks, indicating that she had suffered a beating.

Attorney A. J. Thedbeck of Huntington Beach represented Mrs. Boles at the trial today. Boles was expected to present his case this afternoon. His answer denied cruelty charges and opposed his wife's petition for a decree of divorce.

The downtown streets where sewers and electric conduits have just been laid were not flushed last night as City Engineer W. G. Knox had announced would be done, today, because the drainage water would flow to the new sub-grade which is being prepared on McFadden street. The street will be paved between Main and Maple streets immediately so that the flooding of the dusty business thoroughfares may begin the first of next week.

State picnic reunions scheduled for Saturday, former residents here were reminded today, include the Maine gathering, at Exportation park, Los Angeles, and the Aloha frolic, at Bixby park, Long Beach.

A building permit today had been issued to C. A. Ranney of 820 East Pine street for the construction of a five-room residence and garage at 318 East Berkeley street, at a cost of approximately $2500. Construction will begin at once.

Mrs. Susan E. Vanderlip of Hemet, formerly of Santa Ana, has traded her Hemet property for the Cecilia apartments, 532 Estes street, Long Beach, and is now residing there, according to word her friends here had received today.

W. B. Hooper, walnut specialist of the University of California, will arrive here late today from Riverside to complete plans for the field day and meeting of walnut growers to be held at Birch park, Saturday. Hooper is scheduled to address the growers on "Improved Tree Tools."

Col. J. F. Dillon, supervisor of radio for the sixth district, he announced here today, will hold an examination for commercial radio operators' licenses tomorrow at 3 a.m. at the Y. M. C. A. radio school, 715 South Hope street, Los Angeles. The following day, at the same hour and place, he will examine applicants for amateur operators' licenses.

Five City Drivers Pay $70 As Fines

Four as speeders and one driver of an automobile with an offensive muffler exhaust today had enriched the city $70 in fines collected by City Recorder W. F. Heathman.

Carl Carlton drew the heaviest penalty and paid $20, and Ted Cook and Paul A. Riese, were fined $15 each as speeders.

Andy May, asserted muffler cutter ordinance violator, was assessed $5.

Demands Arrest Of Boy Thieves

"I was a kid once myself, and I don't believe they are real criminals if they steal my watermelons, but I do want every youngster arrested who is helping to destroy my melon patch."

This assertion was made at police headquarters today by C. R. Shields, 2519 South Birch street, who asked officers to jail youngsters who have been tearing down vines and smashing good watermelons in his yard.

George L. Keller, said to be a resident of Johannesburg, Calif., today was charged with floating a worthless check for $250 in this city, a formal complaint being sworn to by E. Bushy, manager of a hotel here.

Announce Award In House Plans Competition Here

A plan submitted by Walter J. Ferris of Hill and Son, it was announced today, was chosen as the most efficiently and economically arranged three or four-room floor plan submitted in a contest the Barr Lumber company here closed Tuesday. A cash prize of $25 was the award made. Honorable mention was given the plan drawn by Mrs. E. M. Haven, 421 East Chestnut street.

"The fact that home planning is of fundamental interest to a great number of Santa Anans," said O. H. Barr, president and manager of the company, "was given further proof by the surprisingly large response our offer drew."

"Compactness of design and low building cost were the factors most regarded. The plan service department is constantly called upon to offer suggestions relative to the construction of small, efficient homes, and tried this experiment to get new ideas."

The judges were Frederick Eley, W. W. Kays and S. R. Wyvill.

MOVIE DIRECTOR'S TRIAL POSTPONED

On recommendation of the attorney for Lambert Hillyer, moving picture director now on location at Laguna Beach, the trial of Hillyer, his wife and John Barnes, Hillyer's colored chauffeur, on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor and carrying concealed weapons, which was scheduled for Judge Henry Hart's court in Fullerton this morning, was continued until September 4, at 10 a.m.

Bail for the three, who are charged jointly, following their arrest on the outskirts of Fullerton Sunday evening by motorcycle officers, was raised to $1000, which was posted by Ingel Carpenter of Los Angeles, counsel for the director. He entered pleas of not guilty for his clients.

The postponement was granted after Carpenter had stated that the payroll of the moving picture company at Laguna Beach is $5000 daily and that the company would be forced to pay several stars big salaries while the case was being tried.

At this point the tracks disappeared, indicating, it was said, that the bicycle may have been placed in an automobile.

A movement has been launched by the Spanish-American veterans in all parts of California to make Manilla Day a legal holiday over the state. Word has been received that the Atkinson family was among the first settlers in Orange county, locating here approximately sixty years ago, in the Huntington Beach vicinity. Several years later, the family moved to the Trabuco canyon, where they have been living since that time.

Surviving are Mrs. Adkinson, 82, wife of Jesse Adkinson, one of the first settlers of Orange county, and mother of W. E. Adkinson, deputy fish and game warden at El Toro, died at her home in Trabuco on Santa Ana, twenty-six miles from Santa Ana, last night at 9:30 o'clock, two hours after she was stricken with paralysis.

Mrs. Adkinson had been in good health for a number of years, and her sudden death last night came as a shock to the family. She had not complained of feeling ill yesterday, it was said. She was left alone in the house for a few minutes last night and was found unconscious on the floor by her husband, who had been away but a short time. According to the attending physician, Mrs. Adkinson never regained consciousness.

INDUSTRY LAND STOCKHOLDER MEET FIXED

Subscribers to stock of the Santa Ana Industrial Land company will meet at the city council chambers here at 7 p.m. Tuesday, August 12, according to a notice sent subscribers today by A. N. Zerman, chairman of the committee.

Zerman directed attention to the fact that the company was organized to purchase land suitable for industrial sites, and resell the land to manufacturing concerns at cost plus carrying charges. A temporary board of directors, whose names will be used in the articles of incorporation to be forwarded following adoption of by-laws, will be named at Tuesday's meeting.

The amount of capitalization also will be decided at the conference. Capital stock of $250,000 originally was planned, but Zerman intimated the amount might be cut to $100,000.

According to the chairman, a total of $46,500 has been subscribed. This, it was said, would be sufficient to purchase a considerable acreage.

Zerman said that following return of the articles of incorporation from the secretary of state, a permanent board of directors would be elected, with the board naming the officers.

Bench Warrant Issued 120 Days After Trial Date

The law does not forget, it was demonstrated today in the case of Ben Baum, who was being sought by the authorities on a bench warrant issued by Justice J. B. Cox.

Charged with a liquor offense, Baum was cited to appear before the court last April 24. He was given his liberty under $300 cash bail, pending his trial. When the appointed time arrived Baum was not in court and no trace of him could be found.

The bench warrant issued today, nearly four months after the time set for trial, indicated the determination of local authorities to bring Baum to justice.

FORMER ORANGE MAYOR REPLIES TO E. T. S. SPIPLE

Orange, Cal., August 4, 1924.

Editor Register:

After reading State Senator E. T. Sample's speech at Riverside, August 2, I wish to make a few statements.

On the Colorado river and Boulder Dam proposition he says as follows:

"I believe that if the Colorado river development is properly presented to congress, legislation can be obtained speedily that will start needed harnessing of this great stream to do the bidding of mankind. For several years legislation has been pending in congress, but not yet has any bill been reported out of committee. The reason for this I am informed is that the local project, the costly All American Canal, has been appended to the main issue."

The Senator has been very much misinformed if this is the information he got, and he certainly did not get it from the right place, the Congressional Records. The reason why the bill has not been ratified by the Colorado River compact and Congressman Leatherwood of Utah made the statement that as long as Arizona did not ratify this compact, or one similar to this that would safeguard the upper states, he would fight to the finish any attempt to report the Swing-Johnson bill out of committee.

Now as to the Imperial Valley and the All American Canal. In the Swing-Johnson bill before the committee it says as follows:

"Provided, however, that no expenditures for the construction of canals or appurtenant structures authorized hereunder shall be made until the lands to be irrigated shall have first been legally obligated to repay their proper proportions, as may be determined by the Secretary of the Interior, of the total costs thereof to the United States in accordance with the terms of repayment prescribed in the Act of Congress approved June 17, 1902, entitled 'An act appropriating the receipts from the sale and disposal of public lands in certain States and Territories to the construction of irrigation works for the reclamation of arid lands,' and Acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto, hereinafter referred to as the reclamation law."

It is plain that if this bill is adopted that it will not compel Imperial Valley to build the All American Canal unless Imperial Valley by an election, bond their land for the amount as determined by the Secretary of the Interior. This makes the All American Canal a local issue for Imperial Valley only to decide what they want.

Men that are familiar with the subject think that there is a fair chance that Arizona will ratify this compact this fall after the state election. This will be an issue in their election and if they ratify the compact it will remove all obstacles. Personally I think that Congressman Swing has done great work and he certainly worked under handicaps and it strikes me that a man that has put all his energy into this fight for several years is in better position to serve us along this line than a man that only sat on the sidelines and has never offered to help but has criticised any and all action taken so far.

This dry year with water and power very short brings home to us all the necessity of harnessing this great river and I think the quickest way to accomplish this fact is to elect Phil Swing for Congressman so he can get back to Washington and complete the work that he has started.

Yours for fair play,
O. E. GUNTHER.
(Mr. Gunther as mayor of Orange for two years represented that city in the Boulder Dam association.—Ed.)

C. OF C. PLEDGES SUPPORT TO PLAYERS

Pledging further co-operation of the body, directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce today had approved fully the plans of the committee appointed to develop a program for financing the activities of the Orange County Choral Union, Community Players, Santa Ana Symphony orchestra and the Santa Ana Municipal band.

The report of the committee was submitted by Robert Shafer, chairman, at a meeting of the board late yesterday afternoon. It embraced details of the plans formulated and by which it is proposed that 2000 tickets shall be sold at $6 each for a series of ten entertainments to be given this winter by the four organizations.

The committee was continued and was authorized to take whatever action was necessary to carry out the plans. Support of the Chamber was assured should it be found necessary to develop an active drive for the sale of the tickets.

Other matters of minor interest and routine nature were before the board for consideration, according to A. L. Oliver, secretary.

H. S. Samuel, who has just assumed the position of assistant secretary, was introduced to the directors present. Samuel formerly was associated with Oliver in Chamber work at Topeka, Kansas.

Mrs. Steer was arraigned before Police Judge Hannon here, charged with trespassing by Mr. and Mrs. William Shuman, who live next door.

Mrs. Steer said she bought the property two years ago, but was unable to produce a deed to warn her neighbors to keep off the property.

Mrs. Steer said there has been a feud between the Steer and Shuman families over the boundary line of their properties.

Mrs. Steer said she had purchased the property, but that for some reason the purchase had not been included in the deed.

3 N. Y. GIRLS HERE ON TOUR TO MEXICO

Traveling from New York to Santa Ana, since July 1, in one of the cars of which make ten million dollars have been made, and claiming to have enjoyed themselves "every inch" of the way, three high school girls from Brooklyn—Misses C. Feldman, her sister Edith and a friend, Mary Allenberg—spent last night in Santa Ana at the Hotel Cooper.

"We are on our way to Tia Juana and San Diego," the girls explained, "and then we are coming back here on our way back to New York." The girls explained they were forced to return to New York in time for the opening of schools this fall.

Miss Edith Feldman said the trio while en route to California stopped at several interesting places including the Grand Canyon of Arizona. They arose at 5 a.m. today to complete their trip to Mexico.

CAR PLUNGES OVER CLIFF; WOMAN HURT

Mrs. F. L. Curwin, 3718 Livingston drive, Long Beach, was suffering today from serious injuries sustained after she had escaped death in the plunge of an automobile some thirty feet over a cliff at Laguna Beach yesterday.

Mrs. Curwin received a fractured back, all of her teeth were knocked out and her body severely cut by cactus spikes when she was thrown from the automobile and hurled down the cliff. She was removed to the hospital at Long Beach, according to reports reaching Santa Ana today.

Moths seldom attack dyed furs. The first public gas work in London was started in 1812.

PHONE SYSTEM MAN SUED FOR HEART BALM

Edward H. Cookingham, reputed wealthy owner of telephone companies at Laguna Beach and Huntington Beach, was sued for $311,550 damages in a "heart balm" suit on file today in the superior court here. Miss Mary W. Lantry, 24, formerly of this city and Laguna Beach, as plaintiff in the action, made sensational charges against Cookingham.

Miss Lantry demanded $100,000 for alleged breach of promise, and $200,000 damages for asserted acts of the defendant. An additional $10,000 damages was asked for three alleged instances of assault and battery; the sum of $800 for medical expenses incurred, she alleged, because of the defendant's acts, and $750 for money she claims to have advanced to Cookingham.

Becoming acquainted with Cookingham at Lewiston, Idaho, in May, 1922, Miss Lantry claimed, she became engaged to him in July, 1922, at Soap Lake, Wash., being under the impression that he was not married. She learned later, she said, that he was at that time living with his wife, though he had told her, she alleged, that he was divorced.

Their association, while living at Spokane, extended, she alleged, to about January 1, 1923, when Cookingham brought her to Santa Ana by automobile, she claimed. Later that year, about August 1, he took her back to Washington, she stated. Subsequently, they both returned to Orange County. The three alleged instances of assault and battery occurred then, she said, the last being about January 15 of this year when Cookingham, accompanied by another man, broke into her apartment in Anaheim, she alleged, and beat her. The other two instances, she said, occurred while she and Cookingham were riding in an automobile. Both times, she said she was beaten into insensibility.

In connection with her claim for damages, Miss Lantry declares Cookingham is worth about $250,000. The girl, who is an expert accountant, was taken ill while living at Arch Beach last March, it is said. She was examined in the superior court as a user of narcotics and, as such, was committed to the Norwalk hospital on March 28, the court records show. After being there about two months she was released. She is now said to be residing in Los Angeles.

Attorney Marion P. Petty, Los Angeles, filed the damage suit on behalf of Miss Lantry.

WOMAN JAILED FOR CUTTING BERRIES

ROCKAWAY, N. J., Aug. 7.—Convicted on a charge of cutting down berry bushes on the property of a neighbor, Mrs. William Steer of Franklin avenue began a 30-day sentence in the Morris county jail at Morristown. She contended the property is her own and that she was within her rights.

Mrs. Steer was arraigned before Police Judge Hannon here, charged with trespassing by Mr. and Mrs. William Shuman, who live next door.

Mrs. Steer said she bought the property two years ago, but was unable to produce a deed to warn her neighbors to keep off the property.

Mrs. Steer said there has been a feud between the Steer and Shuman families over the boundary line of their properties.

Mrs. Steer said she had purchased the property, but that for some reason the purchase had not been included in the deed.

Wife Causes Her Husband's Arrest

Appealing to deputies to arrest her husband who, she said, "spent half his time in beating her and throwing her out of his home and the other half of his time loafing in a pool hall at Delhi." Mrs. Ramona Gonzales today had secured the arrest of Pedro Gonzales, 40, on a charge of battery. The arrest was made by Constable Jesse Elliott and Officers F. G. Yoder and L. E. Hurd.

"We are on our way to Tia Juana and San Diego," the girls explained, "and then we are coming back here on our way back to New York." The girls explained they were forced to return to New York in time for the opening of schools this fall.

Miss Edith Feldman said the trio while en route to California stopped at several interesting places including the Grand Canyon of Arizona. They arose at 5 a.m. today to complete their trip to Mexico.

WHY YOU NEED ORGANIC IRON

Practical Advice on How to Develop Great Energy and Endurance

The food you eat contains carbon. When your food is digested it is absorbed from the intestine into the blood. When the carbon in your food comes in contact with the oxygen carried by the iron in your blood, the carbon and oxygen unite and by so doing they give off tremendous energy, which provides the body with force, strength and endurance. Without iron your blood carries no oxygen and without oxygen there is nothing to unite with the carbon in your food, so that what you eat does not give you energy, which provides the body with strength from it.

It is like putting coal into a stove without a fire. You cannot get any heat unless the coal unites with the air. Organic Nuxed Iron, which may be had from almost any druggist, will benefit you in this respect. Organic Nuxed Iron will help you to live longer, stronger and more energetic. It gives you more energy, more strength, more endurance, more vitality, more life.

It is the best weapon with which to prevent and overcome colds, pneumonia, kidney trouble, rheumatism, nervous prostration, in fact almost any disease. It gives you greater strength, a full, pure blood, strength, energy and endurance and the greatest energy carrier in the body is organic iron, not metal iron. It gives you much more strength than any other kind of iron. It takes the iron in the spinach, the apples and like the iron contained in what is known as organic Nuxed Iron, which may be had from almost any druggist.

With the purpose of organizing a social and study group of devotees of the drama, a large number of Santa Ana community players met last night in the Taylor barn on East Fourth street.

The barn is the property of F. H. Taylor and has been generously offered by him for the purpose of permanently sheltering the organization. That the thespians appreciated the donation of this unique club house was attested by the promptness with which they made themselves at home in their new surroundings, and the fact that they are to decorate the building soon.

During a discussion of the purpose of the club, it was decided that anyone interested in the study of plays should be voted for membership upon their application to any member of the group. Mrs. Mona Summers Smith was elected chairman of the club with Arthur Collins as vice chairman. Mrs. Estelle Card Beaman as secretary, and Mrs. Ernest Crozier Phillips as general chairman. The regular meeting will be held the first Thursday of every month.

Mrs. Phillips read the latest play of Eugene O'Neill, "All God's Chillun Got Wings," which has been causing such a furor in New York since its production in Province-ton. Those present had brought their own sandwiches and coffee was made and enjoyed at the barn before the social hour at the home of the hospitable Mr. and Mrs. Taylor.

Diva Tells Women
Secret of Youth

"At any age, if she wishes it, a woman may have youth," Mary Garden says in an interesting review with Lloyd Morris recorded in August Good Housekeeping. "In middle age," she goes on, "she may add the wisdom and attraction of experience. Everyone has known my age, it would be preposterous for me to try to conceal it. And why should I? There are compensations in maturity, advantages even, that are not perceptible to the very young. People often seek to compliment me by saying that I am now at the height of my career, that I have reached my greatest success as an artist. But I have not, and I say this emphatically. In a sense my career is only beginning. There are definite words for me to conquer worlds that do not lie in anything external to me, but in my mind and heart.

Not Afraid of Age
"Now I do not fear age," the famous star affirms, "for it is possible to conquer the future. Nor do I deny my years. Every one knows my age, it would be preposterous for me to try to conceal it. And why should I? There are compensations in maturity, advantages even, that are not perceptible to the very young. People often seek to compliment me by saying that I am now at the height of my career, that I have reached my greatest success as an artist. But I have not, and I say this emphatically. In a sense my career is only beginning. There are definite words for me to conquer worlds that do not lie in anything external to me, but in my mind and heart.

How to Preserve Physical Attractiveness

"Naturally, no woman can afford to neglect the usual precautions which aid her in preserving her physical attractiveness," Mary Garden proceeds to counsel readers of August Good Housekeeping.

"A regular life, enough sleep, strict attention to diet, any form of exercise consistently pursued, and an undeviating solicitude and attention to personal appearance upon all occasions are the chief of those precautions. No woman can afford to let herself go at any age, no matter how young or beautiful she may be. To do so is to begin to form a habit of laziness and inertia which is not only physically, but morally and spiritually damaging.

To take these precautions is an obligation of intelligence. It is equivalent to a deliberate refusal to degenerate. I sometimes think that, in a woman, vanity and pride in physical appearance is an index of cultivation. A savage can be sloppy and careless, but a determination to make the most of oneself indicates civilization of the spirit.

The chief point, however, is to have an ambition that spurs you on; to possess some definite purpose toward which you are working and for which you are living.

That is the only infallible defense that I know against the exactions of time. To face the future with courage, with expectancy, with a clearly conceived objective, is really equivalent to annihilating the future.

Every woman, whether or not engaged in a profession, and whether or not she is conscious of it, possesses some such objective. It may be the happiness or success of her children, or the advancement of her husband, or the progress of some activity—perhaps political or social—in which she is concerned. She may be living vicariously and unselfishly in the lives of others. But at bottom she cherishes some ambition and some hope. It is in her unfulfilled ambitions and hopes that her youth still lives. Therefore she should be as thoroughly conscious of them as possible."

Colorful Hotel Tea
Tells Betrothal of Popular Girl

A merry group of boys and girls gathered Tuesday evening at the invitation of Mrs. W. C. Witman of 730 Orange avenue to honor Miss Margaret Witman on her birthday anniversary.

Provided with dance programs as they arrived at the Witman home, the young people began the evening with an enthusiastic search for dancing partners, and with the playing of the dances numbers the success of the evening was assured. For good music was enjoyed even to the extent of inspiring an old-fashioned Virginia reel.

In keeping with the spirit of leap year, "ladies' choice" dance was a feature of the program which proved to be very popular with the young men.

The punch table was decorated in pink and white, while the cake and ices served late in the evening were in the same colors.

Among those present were the Misses Veda Mitchell, Virginia Brenon, Louise Bryan, Jewell Fletcher, Virginia Lowell, Frances Vieira, Mary Jane Owen, Lois Winslow, Edith McKinney, Grace Lowe, Beatrice Boyd, Biddle Witman and Margaret Witman. David Evans, Allen McDermott, Frank Bell, Ned Johnson Jack Whitted, Frances Horton, Harlon Kittle, James True, Donald Hardwood, Blithe McCausland, Fred Johnson, Carwell Baldwin, Mrs. J. D. One Cent Per Year
For Churches to
20 on Crime War

CHICAGO, Aug. 7—Only 1 cent out of every dollar earned by people in the United States annually goes for the support of churches. One and one-half cents goes for education and 4½ cents for all the machinery of government.

This was the assertion of Frank E. Hand of the Independent Order of Foresters, a fraternal society with 165,000 members in the United States and Canada, in an address before a welfare conference in which he discussed the philanthropic activities of his society.

More than 20 cents out of every American dollar, Mr. Hand said, is devoted to crime and waste. The nation spends twice as much on crime and punishment as it pays for churches, schools and government combined, he added.

WOMAN PRAYS AS MITE BOX YEGGWORKS

While a woman was kneeling in prayer before the altar at St. Joseph's Catholic church, Lacy and Stafford streets, at 5:30 p. m. yesterday, a nicely-dressed middle-aged man slowly walked through the house of worship and broke open three metal contribution boxes, stealing the cash contents.

This story, according to the police, was told today by the Rev. Father Henry Eummelen, rector who said the woman before the altar believed the stranger had entered the church to do penance and therefore she paid but little attention to his actions.

No one knows how much money was taken from three boxes, Father Eummelen stated, although it was believed the contributions did not exceed $25.

The woman who was engaged in prayer, told the rector she glanced around her when she heard approaching footsteps. She saw a man of medium build, light complexion and about 35 years old, who was dressed in a neat black suit, walk slowly to the front of the church, his head bowed. Presently the man passed slowly to the rear of the building, where he remained a few minutes before he opened the door and left.

Heavy chains attached to the large bronze collection box near the altar had been cut and the money compartment had been removed. One of the metal boxes at the rear of the building had been pried open, and over the other box the padlock was broken.

A cigar carefully placed on a ledge at the entrance of the church was found by the police while they were seeking clues.

A Great Success

THE successful opening of our new store yesterday was very gratifying, and we wish to express our deep appreciation to the people of Santa Ana and vicinity who visited our establishment on that occasion.

LOCATION HERE NEW CARS NOW OF STUDIO IS EXHIBITED DELAYED IN S. A.

Postponement, for an indefinite time, of any further move on the part of the Vitagraph Company of America, in establishing a moving picture studio in Santa Ana, was reiterated in a statement made late yesterday by Albert E. Smith, president of the company, who was interviewed by a reporter from the Register and John C. Wallace, representing the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, at his Hollywood office.

Smith stated his company was unusually busy at this time, in an effort to rush the completion of its latest picture, "Captain Blood," and that he was in a hurry to get the picture to New York next week, and together with this and the fact that "Santa Ana is greatly excited, especially the real estate men, and that it will be necessary for us to wait until things cool off down there," were reasons he gave why nothing regarding the Santa Ana studio could be done at this time.

Smith refused to state where the property he wanted for the studio was situated, and refused to state anything further regarding the studio, but did not deny that he had been negotiating for a certain piece of property named to him. He stated that he would need "a number of acres," when the time came to build the studio, and not just enough property on which to erect a studio.

That many Santa Ana real estate men had been endeavoring to interview him was made plain by Smith, who stated:

"I wish I had never given out that story in the first place. It has meant a set-back in our plans and I should never have said anything about it. It will now possibly cost us a lot of money and put us to a lot of trouble."

MOVING PICTURE LOCATION IS FOUND ON TOP OF HIGH HILL; LAGUNA BEACH FOLK SCALE IT

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 7.—Proof that the lure of moving picture making can become so strong within the breasts of even painter and sculptor folk that they will scale the heights to see some kalmained actors and actresses walk across a set while the director yells "cut" was seen last night.

Several hundred of the local citizenry, both temporary and permanent, puffed and panted to the top of a high hill, which looked like it was 500 feet high from the bottom and 5000 feet down from the top.

At the top of this high hill was a "location" where Lambert Hillier and some of his "playmates" from Hollywood were making scenes in "Dr. Nye," in which Percy Marmon is the featured player.

Huge blue lights swept the sky and finally rested upon the chalk countenance of the favorite player. The director, draped in a sort of canvas back chair, would yell "budge" or "cut" or some equally expressive term, the actor would screw up his face to register disgust, knock the ashes out of his pipe to show he didn't care a bit about the price of tobacco, and smirk at the imaginary villain.

After this interesting and highly illuminating process had been gone through several times, the director got up from his couch, waved his hands at the generating plant and the high hill was pitched into darkness much as was Moses in the basement when the lights were cut off in the first power conservation period.

It was then the problem of the several hundred intelligent, artistic and plain citizenry of Laguna Beach and points west to slide down the high hill without going over a 500-foot cliff or embracing the sea when it was wet.

Within the crowd saw nothing of Percy Marmon, Doris Kenyon or other featured players. However, another batch of enthusiastic mountain climbers is expected to lure, lured by the Kleigs.

And the director lolled back in his canvas chair and yelled "cut!"

LAUDS NEWPORT BEACH

Most Ideal Resort In South-

Man Declares

"There are more pretty homes in Orange county than in any other county in the world."

"Balboa and the Newport bay district, by its odds, the most ideal resort in Southern California, because of the particular advantages of the bay and ocean."

In brief these represent the expressions of Edward Insley, assistant editor of the Los Angeles Examiner, who, with his family, is spending his vacation at Balboa.

Evincing his further interest in Balboa and the beach district and particularly in the services offered between those points and Los Angeles by the Pacific Electric Railway company, Insley said he had taken up with O. A. Smith, general passenger agent of the railway company, the matter of providing the Newport-Balboa line cars with lavatory conveniences.

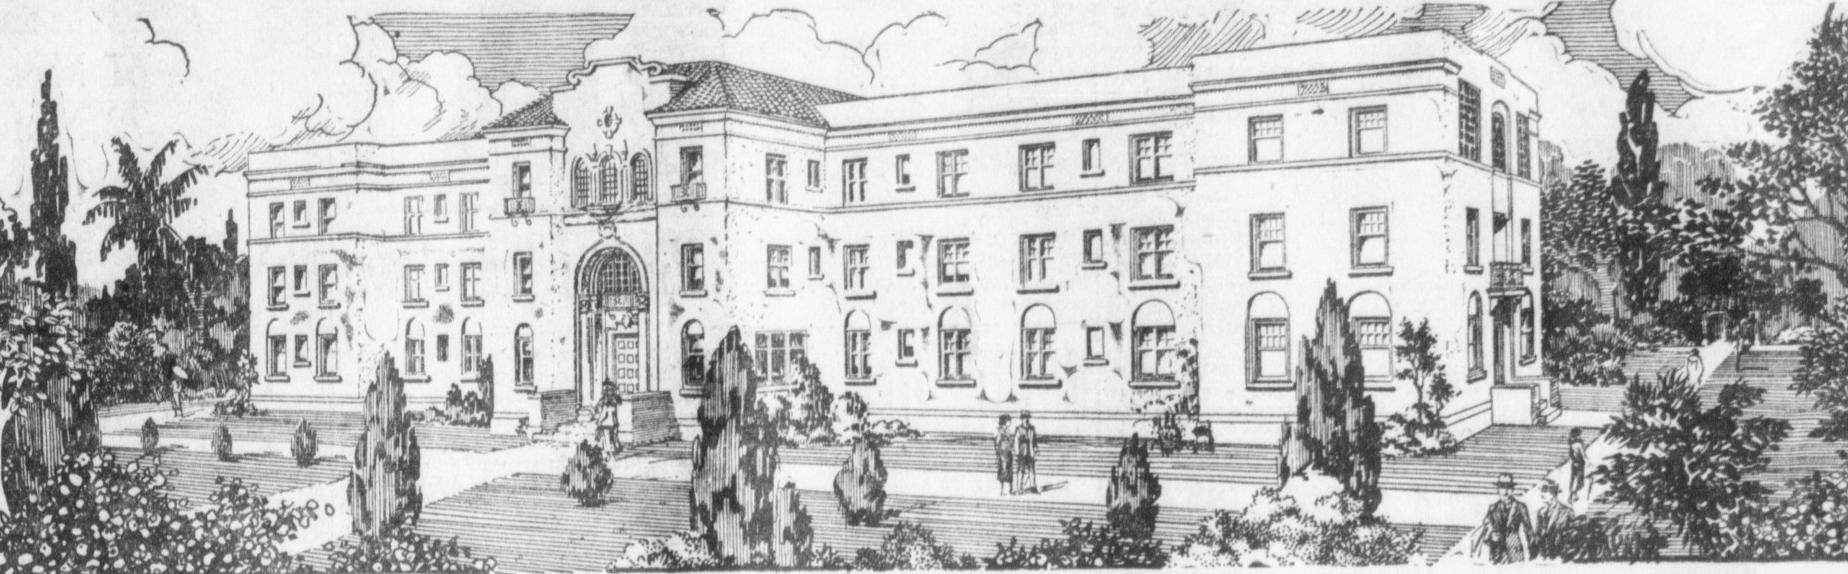

Admires County
He asserted that he had been assured by the passenger agent that one or more of the new cars recently received by the company would be assigned to the Newport Beach-Los Angeles run just as soon as the present power shortage is overcome.

"I always have been an admirer of Orange county—its rich lands, their wonderful productivity—the beauty of the county and its general air of prosperity—all have made favorable impressions on me," declared the newspaper man, whose home is in Covina.

CONSTRUCTION OF $200,000 SANTA ANA HOSPITAL TO BEGIN IN SIX WEEKS

Here is the architectural drawing of the $200,000 building to be constructed by the Santa Ana Valley Hospital association at the corner of Grand and Washington avenues. The Spanish-style building will be finished in stucco with a red tile roof and will contain many features not duplicated elsewhere in Southern California. Each room will have radio connections and telephone service. A sun porch is to be constructed on the roof. The corridors bordering the nursery will contain large plate-glass windows so that the infants may be observed from the outer halls. The interior arrangement of rooms on all floors has been planned for conveniences and prompt service. According to the directors of the hospital association the construction of the new building will begin in six weeks. The perspective shown here was sketched by Frank Lansdown, who prepared the plans and specifications for the new hospital.

SEEK SOLUTION
FOR TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Because of the congested traffic on the thoroughfares which enter Santa Ana, the city planning commission has been asked to offer a solution that would divert automobile traffic to residential sections, away from the crowded downtown streets.

The problem may be solved, it was said, by establishing a boulevard running parallel with North Main street which would intersect the Los Angeles highway at a point between the Chapman-Main street intersection at Orana and the county hospital. To save the expense of another bridge across the Santa Ana river, it has been suggested that the proposed boulevard meet the highway near the east approach of the present bridge on Chapman street near the hospital.

This plan, it was explained, would relieve congestion at Orana where traffic is often blocked on Sundays and holidays. Main street also would be relieved of heavy traffic if motorists had a route through the city several blocks west of the always crowded Main thoroughfare.

The planning commission at present is considering the advisability of extending Bristol street north across Santiago creek where a bridge would have to be constructed, and in a nearly straight line to the east approach of the Santa Ana river bridge east of the county hospital. The principle obstacle in this plan, however, is the bridge across Santiago creek, according to members of the commission.

Bristol street, if the north extension were made, would become a "through" thoroughfare, as it

281 ARRESTED
BY POLICE
IN JULY

City Marshal L. C. Rogers today made public his July report of all cases handled by the local authorities. The report shows that 281 arrests were made last month, six out of seven stolen automobiles were recovered, seven out of twenty stolen bicycles were found by officers, and there now are four unclaimed bicycles at the police station.

Two hundred and forty-four arrests were made in July for traffic violations, and fines collected from violators of the state motor vehicle laws netted the city $411 for the street improvement fund.

Other fines for city violations enriched the city treasury, $737, according to the records of City Recorder W. F. Heathman.

Rogers' report shows six arrests for being drunk, two for vagrancy, five for the illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, one for disturbing the peace, one for unsanitary premises, one for battery, five for shooting firecrackers in the city limits, and one for driving an automobile while intoxicated.

In addition to these, seven arrests were made for the juvenile authorities: one for a statutory offense, three for burglary, two for kidnaping and one for an attempted hold-up.

BUILDING TOTAL FOR YEAR IS
$1,315,766

Santa Ana is to have one of the most picturesque modern hospitals in Southern California.

The new $200,000 structure will be erected by the Santa Ana Valley Hospital association at the southwest corner of Grand and Washington avenues, and workmen will begin actual construction of the new hospital in about six weeks, it was announced today by Dr. C. D. Ball, president of the association's board of directors.

The proposed building is the result of untiring efforts of local physicians who for several years have been planning the institution.

The hospital will be three stories tall, with a basement under the rear wing in which will be located the boilers, refrigerating plant and store-rooms.

The T-shaped building has been arranged so that its broad frontage will have the benefit of maximum sunlight and fresh air.

Seventy-five patients can be cared for in the single wards. There will be a number of two-bed wards and rooms en-suite with bathrooms.

Up to the present date the building permits of the present year have averaged $2528 for each permit. This average is considered fairly high, Decker stated, explaining that nearly half of the permits were for alterations and repairs of dwellings, involving an expenditure of only small sums. Nearly half of the permits, he said, were for small jobs ranging in cost from $50 to $500, and usually averaging no more than $100.

The majority of the permits, however, were for the construction of bungalows at an average cost of $3500. Spanish design with stucco finish predominated in residence specifications.

The building totals were expanded considerably by permits for the county jail, Roosevelt school and several other large structures.

Sixty-two permits were issued for being drunk, two for vagrancy, five for the illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, one for disturbing the peace, one for unsanitary premises, one for battery, five for shooting firecrackers in the city limits, and one for driving an automobile while intoxicated.

"These records indicate a healthy condition in building activity here," Decker explained, "and with the present good conditions getting still better I predict an unusually high building mark for the month of August."

LONDON, Aug. 7—According to the Daily Express a party of American lawyers, visiting Brasenose College, Oxford, for the week-end, discovered in the college records an unpaid account owing since 1623 by Lawrence Washington, great-grandfather of George Washington, for bread and beer.

The visitors handed the amount, 17 shillings, 10 pence, to the principal, who waived his claims for interest.

CONSTRUCTION OF $200,000 SANTA ANA HOSPITAL TO BEGIN IN SIX WEEKS

U. S. 25-CITY
AVERAGE IS

Each Person's Construction
$111, Population, Permit

Building operations in Santa Ana analyzed on a per capita basis for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1924, were more than 19 per cent in excess of the average of the twenty-five leading cities of the United States, according to a compilation made here today.

Long Beach, it was declared, claimed construction activities at the rate of $290 per capita for the fiscal year, while Los Angeles shows $150 and Santa Ana $111. New York and Detroit follow with $109 per annum.

The analysis showed that Chicago, which for years ranked second in building operations, has never reached a $100-per-capita-per-year average, a figure rated as indicating unusual prosperity. New York and Detroit, however, reached the figure only last year. Philadelphia maintained a ratio of $70 per capita, San Francisco $55, Washington $50, St. Louis $45, Pittsburgh $40 and Indianapolis $30.

The $111 per capita rate in Santa Ana for the fiscal year ending July 1, was based, it was explained, on a conservative estimated population of 29,500 persons, which is nearly twice the population given by the federal census of 1920. The total value of building permits issued within the city limits during the fiscal year, according to the records of Building Inspector W. S. Decker, is $3,513,460.

It was admitted by the investigators, however, that the value of buildings constructed during the first half of the fiscal year was very much greater than the building costs during the past six months. The average, however, is nearly $300,000 a month for the twelve months.

This record, held remarkable, which places Santa Ana ahead of the large Eastern cities in per capita building expenditures, likewise was declared to be ample proof of the confidence Santa Anaans have in their own city.

LUMBER PRICES
EXPECTED TO TAKE JUMP

Santa Anas may take a tip from local lumber dealers and build their homes or business structures now, as lumber prices are not expected to remain at the present low level.

The T-shaped building has been arranged so that its broad frontage will have the benefit of maximum sunlight and fresh air.

Seventy-five patients can be cared for in the single wards. There will be a number of two-bed wards and rooms en-suite with bathrooms.

Install Radio Sets

Each room will be equipped with radio connections and telephone service. A silent signalling system is provided, and every consideration has been given to efficiency of service and economy, along with comfort.

The exterior appearance of the building as designed is of modified Spanish type having arched entrances and terra cotta features. The triple-arched leaded windows will be arranged to be attractive groups.

The exterior walls will be finished in stucco, and the roof over the central wing will be of red tile. On the roof will be a commodious sun porch, accessible from the main stairs.

The ambulance entrance will be at the rear of the hospital, and the elevator will be situated with entrances to both the front and rear corridors.

According to the plans, persons entering the main lobby and reception room may easily find the women's waiting room on the left and the hospital office which will be situated over the entrance stairs, elevator and main corridors.

A turn to the left leads into the medical wing, while to the right or northward wing will be administrative rooms, nurses' quarters, supply and drug rooms and doctors' consulting rooms.

Kitchen Located Centrally

The kitchen, service rooms and dining rooms will be centrally located in the rear wing, convenient for prompt service to other buildings when extension of accommodations is necessary.

The second floor will be used for maternity cases, with a wing reserved for children. An interesting feature is to be the nursery with large plate glass windows along the corridor through which visitors may observe the little occupants of the tiny white and pink cots.

On the third floor will be the surgical wards. In the north part of the building on this floor will radical, especially at the interior mills which depend almost exclusively on rail business. Prices are strengthening, some items having made notable advance during recent weeks. Eastern and middle western inquiries meanwhile are increasing in volume, indicating a brisker trade in the late summer and fall. Export demand for remains approximately normal, but the domestic cargo markets are generally characterized as dull.

Hardwood producers, both in the North and South, report a decided expansion in demand for their product, saying that a majority of the important consuming industries are reentering the market in an encouraging way.

Especially significant is the greater activity of the agricultural implement, truck and vehicle interests, who are said to be experiencing a genuine uplift in their business as a result of the favorable agricultural conditions. The automobile industry remains a poor buyer, but there are signs that an early betterment can be expected in that direction.

Road To Be Aid

Insley is a member of the board of directors of the Covina Chamber of Commerce, which has promoted what is known as the San Jose Hills road, and which will offer an almost straight highway from the Sierra Madre mountains to Orange county beaches. Insley said that construction of the road is now under way.

Pointing out that it would connect near Walnut, on the valley boulevard, between Pomona and Los Angeles, with the county boulevard through Brea canyon, Insley said Orange county would profit immensely by establishment of the new road.

"It will be one of the most scenic highways in the southland and should be opened this fall," concluded Insley.

S. A. SCOUTS OPEN YEAR'S LAST CAMP

Going into Camp Ro-ki-ki, the Santa Ana Boy Scout camp, situated high in the San Bernardino mountains, near Redlands, approximately fifty Santa Ana boys, officially opened the fourth and last summer camp today. Boys of the third camp, forty in number, returned to their home here yesterday.

The present camp will continue until August 20, it was stated, at Boy Scout headquarters today, at which time the camp will be officially closed for the remainder of the year. Officers and friends of the scouts will remain in the camp for several days, it was said, to complete masonry work on the scouts' new swimming pool, so that it will be ready for use when the camps open again next summer.

W. F. Palmer, Scoutmaster for troop No. 4, announced today, that members of his troop would leave troop headquarters at the Francis E. Willard school, at 5:30 p. m. Saturday, for a night out in the open in Trabuco canyon. Palmer stated there would be approximately fifteen scouts make the trip and the troop would return here Sunday.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7—Police headquarters here today received a letter from Los Angeles authorities asking that Philadelphia pawn shops be searched for jewels worth thousands of dollars that were stolen from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pickford at Los Angeles last June.

Seven diamond rings, five bracelets, a wedding ring set with twelve diamonds and other jewelry were stolen from the movie stars' home, according to the letter.

be two large operating rooms with large windows, protected from disturbing sunlight or shadows and with floors and walls finished with gray-toned tiling. Adjoining will be other treatment rooms, sterilizing department and workrooms. The X-ray rooms with large closets for plates and other photographic equipment and with a dark-room for film developing, will be situated on this floor.

The floors in most parts of the hospital will be covered with linoleum, though magnesite will be used in bathrooms and workrooms while departments demanding the most sanitary provisions will have tile on floors and walls. In every possible instance all ledges, projections and angles throughout the building will be rounded to prevent any possibility of dirt collecting.

The building is to be of skeleton reinforced concrete construction with concrete and tile combination floors, arranged with pipe ducts and spaces to accommodate the multitudinous lines of wires and pipes.

HUSBAND SAID WHY NOT TRY IT

Wife Said She Would. Result, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

East Hardwick, Vermont.—"Last winter I was not able to do any work at all. I had backache, headache, sideache, and was sick all the time for six months. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers, and my husband said to me, 'Why don't you try it?' So I said I would, and he went and got me a dozen bottles. It has done me more good than I can ever tell, and my friends say, 'What have you done to yourself? You look so well.' I tell them it is the Vegetable Compound that makes me so well and strong. There is no need to suffer with backache and pains. I will tell every one what I have done for myself."—Mrs. FREDERICK PRIMO, Route No. 2, E. Hardwick, Vermont.

REHEARING IN EDISON RATES CASE O.K'D

A petition of protest filed by W. J. Carr, Pasadena attorney, representing Santa Ana and twenty-five other Southern California cities urging Southern California Edison company power and light, and dissenting opinions filed by Commissioners Seavey and Shore of the railroad commission, had been effective today in securing an order of the railroad commission for a hearing of the application of the Edison company for an increase in rates. The commission, August 1, granted the company an increase of 10 per cent. The rehearing will be held in Los Angeles August 13, it was announced.

Protests and petitions for a rehearing also were filed by the Los Angeles Board of Public Utilities, the Yucaipa Water company and the South Mesa Water company.

In their petitions the water companies assert that it was not shown at the former hearing that the company's financial structure would be undermined by continuing its present rates. The increase granted will impose a hardship on the Los Angeles public service commission, according to declarations in its petition.

The dissenting commissioners based their opinion on the following points:

1. The principle of basing rates on the average condition over a period of years rather than specific conditions of any particular year.

2. The unsoundness of granting emergency rates in the face of the company's present ability to pay 8 per cent dividends on their common stock.

3. The injustice of imposing on the company's consumers an extra burden of sharing the company's temporary losses in addition to the hardship and losses which they themselves are enduring from the same causes.

4. Incompleteness of the record in the proceeding which did not include any report or check made by the commission's engineers.

5. Failure to take into account the accumulated surplus of the company, which, according to the dissenting commissioners' opinion, together with the contingency reserve and the estimated net revenue for the year, enable the company to meet all operating expenses, depreciation annuity, interest on bonds, and all dividends on stock, including 8 per cent on common stock, and still leaves a modest surplus. The commissioners hold that if any conservation is required it should be made by reduction of the common stock dividend rather than the granting of a temporary increase of rates.

One of the outstanding features in the future advancement of Santa Ana and vicinity, he explained, will be the industrial program for this district.

Awake To Opportunities

"It is a fact," he declared, "that every important community in Southern California today is giving serious thought to the industrial future of this section of the country, and with the natural advantages at her door, Santa Ana is awakening to her opportunities in this regard."

Oliger five years ago made a brief survey of the Los Angeles harbor which at that time was in its infancy.

"The Santa Ana district today is in the same position as the San Pedro and Long Beach districts were five years ago," he said.

In 1919, only nine steamship lines were plying in and out of the Los Angeles harbor, while today I am told that ninety-four steamship lines make the Los Angeles harbor their port of call. Much of this advancement was brought about by co-operation among the communities involved, and if Santa Ana will exert the same efforts, the Orange county harbor may experience the same or similar rapid development.

Enthusiastic for Harbor

Expressing much enthusiasm in the local harbor project, the new secretary called attention to a statement made by the sub-committee on shipping of the harbor committee of fifty, pertaining to the possibilities of the Orange county harbor.

"Our investigation for harbors situated near other large ports have convinced me that Orange county harbor may become an important subsidiary for Los Angeles harbor, and is a project that is worthy of the full and enthusiastic support of every taxpayer in Orange county."

CITY'S FUTURE IS ROSY SAYS CHAMBERMAN

"With the natural advantages at Santa Ana's door now seeking recognition, with everyone on the other side of the Rocky Mountains planning to come to California, and with Santa Ana being to California what California is to the rest of the world, it is not visionary to declare that Santa Ana can easily be made a city of 100,000 population within the next five years."

This was the optimistic prediction made today by A. L. Oliver, who last Friday assumed the responsibility of secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

"This prediction is not unfounded," he ejaculated. "I could name many reasons for my confidence in Santa Ana. All of these reasons can be backed by undisputable facts."

One of the outstanding features in the future advancement of Santa Ana and vicinity, he explained, will be the industrial program for this district.

Failure to take into account the accumulated surplus of the company, which, according to the dissenting commissioners' opinion, together with the contingency reserve and the estimated net revenue for the year, enable the company to meet all operating expenses, depreciation annuity, interest on bonds, and all dividends on stock, including 8 per cent on common stock, and still leaves a modest surplus. The commissioners hold that if any conservation is required it should be made by reduction of the common stock dividend rather than the granting of a temporary increase of rates.

Appeal Suit Over $127 Auto Tires

Possession of two automobile tires valued at $127.50 was involved today in a suit filed in the superior court here in connection with an appeal taken from a justice court decision.

Jess Goodman, local tire dealer, originally brought the action against Dale and Company in Justice J. B. Cox's court, claiming that Dale and Company were unlawfully withholding possession of the tires from him. Justice Cox decided in favor of Goodman. Thereupon the case was appealed by Dale and Company.

Attorneys A. E. Koepsel, of Orange, represents Goodman in the action. Attorneys Scarborough, Forney and Reinhaus appearing for Dale and Company.

SANTA ANA IS IDEAL CITY OF HOMES

The favorite city of the Southland—that's Santa Ana's new name.

Santa Ana may never be the largest metropolis of California, but it will always be considered as the ideal home city, according to J. Wiley Harris, president of the local board of realtors.

And there are many reasons for this. Here are just a few of the main attractions pointed out by the veteran realtor:

Santa Ana is the leading city of the richest county of its size on the continent.

Santa Ana is the largest walnut shipping point in the world.

Santa Ana is ten miles from the mountains and ten miles from the sea.

Santa Ana is near the entrance to Orange county harbor.

Santa Ana's prosperity was evidenced by $5,166,587 in building permits last year.

Santa Ana has increased from a population of 15,483 three years ago to about $3,000 today.

Santa Ana's climate—well, we let the poets tell about it.

Santa Ana's growth guarantees investments.

"What is your idea of a perfect flapper?" was the question popped at prominent members of the cast of "The Perfect Flapper," a First National Picture starring Colleen Moore now playing at the Yost theater.

Sydney Chaplin, who plays in this picture one of the best comedy parts of his career, opined as follows: "One should take no stock in stories about flappers being 'wild.' In the present-day world, they are no wilder than were their grandmothers in their day. I hope her hair will be held more under control than they are now, but I think the modern flapper is simply a product of the times—frank and daring."

FLORIDA SNAKE IS FOUND IN CAROLINA

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 7.—A party of students, headed by Prof. J. D. Corrington of the University of South Carolina, while searching weeds and ponds near Columbia, S. C., made what is believed to be a scientific discovery of importance. An adolescent specimen of the black swamp snake, known as semiafric-pygae, hitherto reported only in Florida, was found.

The question that will interest all biologists is how this species comes to be found in a locality 360 miles north of its established northern-most range, Professor Corrington asserted.

EAST OPTIMISM TOLD AS S. A. MEN RETURN

Bumper crops and prospective high prices for wheat, corn and hogs has made business men, manufacturers and farmers of the Middle West optimistic, according to P. G. Beissel, local shoe merchant, who was home today from a trip east, where he attended the national convention of Elks at Boston as a representative of Santa Ana Lodge No. 794.

Returning with him was R. C. Peterson, another local shoe dealer, who also attended the Elks' convention. Peterson, who bought an extensive stock of women's footwear, said that black would be the favored color this fall. Black patent leathers and black satins will probably head the popularity list, he declared. No special type of heels will be favored, he said, adding that the low variety will be equally as popular as the high.

Beissel predicted the re-election of President Coolidge, basing the forecast on his political observations in the Middle West and East.

"In Wisconsin and Minnesota," Beissel declared, "I heard a great deal of La Follette, but in the East everything was Coolidge. The President will win hands down, in my opinion."

"Two years ago I visited virtually the same districts I did on this trip," Beissel continued, "and I noted a wonderful change in the general business tone. Whereas factories two years ago were working about 60 per cent of normal, now they are operating full blast. This was particularly true of the shoe factories, in which I was most deeply interested.

"Optimism pervades all activities in the Middle West. Crop conditions appeared to be best in South Dakota for here they are a little more advanced than in some other states. Recent hot weather was hastening corn to maturity."

Beissel visited his sisters, Mrs. Catherine Sieben and Mrs. George Costello, at Hastings, Minn., his birthplace. He declared there had been very few changes in the city since he left it many years ago.

When Beissel came to California, he migrated from Yankton, S. D., and he included this city in his itinerary.

"Yankton has made big progress," he said. "One of the big accomplishments of the past two years was the financing of the project of building a bridge across the Missouri river from the Dakota to the Nebraska side. This project had been discussed for fifty years, and the community got busy, financed the enterprise and put it over. To me it was an indication of a progressive spirit and prosperity. The bridge, now nearing completion, will cost $1,500,000."

REALTORS PAID WARM TRIBUTE IN ADDRESS

The widespread movement in recent years to bring business leaders together, for common and frank counsel, has been paralleled by a great improvement in business and professional ethics, according to statements by Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, in an address delivered at the recent annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at Washington, D. C.

Santa Ana real estate brokers today had received copies of the address and were keenly interested in the tribute paid their profession by the president.

Pointing out that a deal in which one side "gets the best of it" is not good business, and emphasizing the fact that both sides should be benefitted in any transaction, the president said there is opportunity and it is the duty of real estate men to maintain a standard of honest practices in dealing with their clients.

"As a rule, the service of the real estate broker is that of middleman, bringing buyer and seller together," said the chief executive. "Dealers will profit in the long run if they are guided by the aim to render a real service to both sides. A transaction whose sole motive is the brokerage fee, whether or not it is earned by genuinely benefiting the principals, is not commendable."

Continuing, the president said: "The real estate business makes large demands on the skill, intelligence and abilities of those who succeed in it. The good realtor must make a success big enough to divide by three, giving buyer, seller and intermediary each a share of the benefit. It makes your work a most important one. Yours is one of the biggest, most important departments of activity in the nation. No other business group contributes more effort to establishing full appreciation of the great present and assured future of our country."

FISHES FISH

SOUTH KENSINGTON, England, Aug. 7.—A fish with an angling rod sticking up from its back and a tassel dangling at the end to entice its prey within reach of its mouth has been introduced into the Natural History Museum here. It was caught by a Hull trawler in Icelandic waters. The fish is a yard long and its fishing rod a full foot.

Candidate Is Interviewed NO SPECIAL ISSUE IN THIRD DISTRICT SUPERVISOR RACE

"What's the issue between you and Bill Schumacher?" This was not the opening question in an interview with Perry Woodward of Fullerton, candidate for supervisor of the third supervisorial district, which comprises numerous communities and cities in the northern part of the county.

Woodward came into the office with Attorney Varnum, who, by the way, is publicity manager for the campaigns of Perry Woodward, for supervisor; W. B. Allen, for assemblyman; Chester Kline, for state senator, and maybe one or two others. At least, The Register has been visited by Attorney Varnum in the interest of these three candidates.

However, this is not an interview with Attorney Varnum.

It has been observed by a number of successful interviewers that it is not a fair thing to interview a man in the presence of others. Hence in this series of articles under the heading "Candidate Is Interviewed" it has been the policy of the interviewer to buttonhole the candidate alone—all, all alone in an office.

And this is how it started: "What's the issue between you and Bill Schumacher?" was asked, the said Bill Schumacher being the present supervisor from the third district and the man whom Woodward is seeking to unseat.

"What's the issue?" replied Woodward. "Why, there is no special issue between us. Mr. Schumacher is a good friend of mine, and I'm not saying anything against him. In fact, I don't know anything to say against him, and I wouldn't say it if I knew anything to say against him."

"But a lot of my friends over there think that Mr. Schumacher has been in office for twelve years and they think it is about time to pass the office on to someone else."

"So, I got into the race. I don't know whether a candidate is a good judge, but I have received lots of encouragement. The outlook looks good."

Woodward said that he preferred letting someone else praise him.

"They tell me I'm too backward," said Woodward, "but I will say that I have lived in the Fullerton section for thirty-five years, ever since I was 17 years old."

Let's see! That would make him 52 years old or thereabouts.

"I was field deputy under the county assessor for eleven years, and I feel that I know the district and its problems pretty well, and know the people of the district and know what they want."

"Is there any K.K.K. fight going on in your district?" was asked.

"No, I don't think that that is an issue in my campaign."

And then Woodward said that he proposed making a hard fight for election, and that he will keep it up because he thinks he can win.

$150,000 ASKED FOR POULTRY STUDY HALL

California poultrymen within the next few weeks will circulate petitions requesting the state legislature when it convenes again to set aside an appropriation of $150,000 for a new building, and the creation of a department for technical research on poultry problems, at the University of California. This was the word received here today by farm bureau officials.

Declaring that the $50,000,000 poultry industry of the state must have support, the poultrymen, numbering more than 10,000, are determined. It was reported, to see that research work they feel is needed is begun at once.

With their tremendous flocks, now supplying the egg markets of the United States, the poultrymen, it was pointed out, are vitally interested in having problems affecting breeding, nutrition and poultry diseases analyzed by the best available experts just as soon as possible.

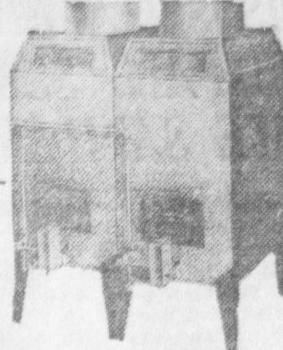

Carrying their battle to the state house, the poultrymen have named Prof. Ed J. Hauser, superintendent of the Fontana poultry plant, and recognized as one of the leading authorities on poultry in the country, chairman of their committee. Under Prof.

Hauser every poultryman in the state will begin circulating petitions this week. The campaign has been named "the progressive poultry drive," and when the legislature convenes, Prof. Hauser will represent the poultrymen before that body.

Loser in Lease Decision Appeals

The legal action brought by C. Y. Martin against George T. Calhoun, used car dealer, in connection with a lease on a garage at 519 East Third street, was on file in the superior court here today, on appeal by Martin. Calhoun won the case when it came to trial, July 5, before Justice J. B. Cox, who decided in favor of Calhoun, and denied Martin's demand for $230 judgment for alleged abandonment of lease. Martin thereupon appealed to the superior court through his attorneys, Scarborough, Forgy and Reinhaus. Attorney James L. Hansen of Huntington Beach represents Calhoun.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT HEATING

Do you know that a large part of sickness is caused by poor Heating appliances or unsanitary Plumbing?

Do you know about seven months out of the year you need heat part of the time?

Do you know that having an open Gas heater of any kind that is not vented is as bad as having about five people in the same room with you all the time?

Do you know that you cannot burn Gas to the extent that there are no fumes, altho there may not be any odor?

We have made a study of the heating business here in Santa Ana for twelve years and would be very glad to talk over your heating problems with you. We will help you arrange your basement piping so that you will not spoil the basement, arrange the registers in the rooms so they will not interfere with the location of some piece of furniture.

We do not charge any more for this service than you pay for other heating systems.

How often have you heard it said, "I wish this register was not here—or, was not there because I wanted to set this piece of furniture there. Now I haven't any place to set it and all because the heating contractor did not stop to think until after the job was completed."

Come in and let us demonstrate the BUNG-LO UNIT SYSTEM OF HEATING or let us call and talk it over with you.

feet, so that a row of valuable walnut trees may be saved. The balance of Eighth street already is paved to the full thirty-three-foot width.

"I've heard of skyscrapers being moved so that streets could be widened," Mrs. Cushman asserted, "and I've also heard that boulevards have circled old trees which were community landmarks—but I'm stumped on this Eighth street proposition."

LIVES GROW LONGER

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Less drinking, wiser eating and healthier cities have increased the average length of life by two years since 1900, government figures show. Authorities have found that people are living so much longer that the price of life annuities has been raised. From 1900 to 1920 the normal death rate in England and in other European countries has been lowered, records also reveal.

WIDTH OF STREET BEFORE PLANNERS

Members of the city planning commission today were trying to decide if the growth of Santa Ana would be affected by a difference of three feet in the width of Eighth street between Bristol and Artesia street.

If no objection is found so far as the city's development is concerned, according to Mrs. Clara Cushman, secretary, the commission must decide on the wisdom of changing the specifications for paving Eighth street.

The three-foot controversy was started by Joseph Dismukes and W. C. Childers, property owners on Eighth street, who have asked the commission to recommend to the board of city trustees that the street be paved to a width of thirty feet instead of thirty-three

Industrial wastes which would overburden the hydraulic capacity of the joint outfall sewer here or would prove burdensome in the matter of disposal at the screening plant or ocean outlet must not be permitted to enter the system which serves Santa Ana, Anaheim, Fullerton, Orange and the sanitary districts of Placentia and Garden Grove. This statement was made today over the telephone to The Register by R. F. Gouday of Los Angeles, sanitary engineer with the state board of health.

Gouday's stand, in the opinion of W. G. Knox, engineer in charge of the joint outfall sewer, will settle the difficulty arising because of chemicals and garbage said to have been passing through the $500,000 system.

The alcohol plant at Anaheim must disconnect from the sewer," the state health officer added, "as the harmful effect of sewage from that source is a thousand times greater than that of ordinary sewage. As I understand it, the joint outfall sewer was never intended for industrial wastes."

Outlines State View

"If outlines of industrial waste are not burdensome to the system, such sewage should at least be purified by the industrial before it is permitted to enter the sewer. If sewage from factories and packing plants complicates disposal of that waste, it should not be allowed in the sewer."

"If offending industrial plants refuse to obey these rules, an injunction suit should be filed with the district attorney to enjoin the factory from discharging its wastes into the outfall sewer that this matter be brought to the attention of the district attorney to enjoin the alcohol factory from discharging wastes into the outfall sewer system."

Jap College Men Earn Only $22.50 Per Month, Report

TOKYO, Aug. 6.—Graduates of the Imperial university, Tokyo's leading institution of learning, are worth $22.50 a head per month. This is the quotation on salaries available recently for positions in the department of home affairs and railways. Because the two departments were in an especially prosperous condition this year, it was stated that the usual salary for a young college graduate could be slightly improved and, therefore, the following offers were made:

For a graduate of Imperial university, $22.50 monthly. For a graduate of Keio and Waseda universities, $20 monthly. For a graduate of schools of lesser importance, $19 monthly.

These salaries do not, of course, include the bonuses which are given Japanese in all lines of work at frequent intervals during the year.

Find 4 Motherless Kiddies Desereted, Near Starvation

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Four motherless Jersey City children, deserted three weeks ago by their father and found nearly starved in their squallid home, at 72 Mercer street, recuperated after food and a night's care, at the shelter of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, to which they were taken.

He has been suffering from blood poisoning and it was deemed a kindly and noble deed by his relatives to take him to the hospital, where a beautiful nurse might take his temperature and feel his pulse.

William Rising, 21, of 141 Dickinson street, came to official attention of the authorities as William that soured him on the entire feminine sex?

What did she do that drove William, though desperately ill, from the hospital portals of Crouse-Irving hospital with a vow that, dying or not, he'd never go back?

William Rising, 21, of 141 Dickinson street, came to official attention of the authorities as William that soured him on the entire feminine sex?

He had been suffering from blood poisoning and it was deemed a kindly and noble deed by his relatives to take him to the hospital, where a beautiful nurse might take his temperature and feel his pulse.

And what happened? William walked out. He came away, regretting a passionate vow that he is through with women forever. But let William tell it himself:

"I never hated women so much in my life as I did while at the hospital and I don't want 'em near me now."

When I was taken sick a week ago I was on a farm and I beat it for home right away because I wanted to be with my folks. Then when the doctor says I've got to go to the hospital, I kicked, but finally I said I'd go. But I didn't stay and I'll never set my foot in one again.

"They made me take pills soaked in water and I would not swallow them. And bitter stuff that I poured right down my throat. I swallowed one mouthful and the other I spit out the window. I told the nurse that she'd better not give me any more, because even if my hands were paralyzed I had a good pair of legs I could swing."

"I don't see any sense in nurses anyway. If I had my way there wouldn't be any of them. I believe that if a fellow's sick he'll either get well or he'll croak. Doctors aren't so bad and the one I've got now is the last I'll ever have."

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 6.—Clippers, razors and curlers have largely supplanted hair nets in the rural druggists' business since bobbed hair for women became popular, said W. F. CHOKES WILDCAT SNARED WITH BALING WIRE TRAP

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Aug. 7.—Victor Douglas, a miner, was driving with a companion in an automobile near here recently when a wildcat crossed the road in front of them and climbed to the ledge on the cliff above the road. Douglas snared the beast with a long stick and baling wire.

The enraged cat sprang, but Douglas dodged and was able to keep it from closing in on him by whirling it around him at the end of the wire. Finally Douglas began to grow dizzy, and giving the wire a final swing, he hurled it against the cliff and dashed for his car. But the bobcat did not move.

FIRE FIGHTING APPARATUS AT BEACH URGED

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 7.—The regular meeting of the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday night was well attended. Regular business was disposed of quickly. The vital question arising from the great danger of fire that Laguna Beach had just witnessed was then discussed.

Mr. A. B. Marshall, local realtor, made a very impressive talk, stating at this time Laguna Beach should take immediate steps to get more fire fighting apparatus and if possible get a good pulmotor. He talked of the great danger in which the business district of Laguna beach was in case of another fire with the present fire fighting equipment. A pulmotor is needed in case of drowning and he made mention of the death of Mr. William T. Putnam at Crystal Bay on Sunday. Mr. Marshall urged immediate action.

Mr. Joe Skidmore, who for many years has been prominent in Chamber of Commerce work in Laguna Beach, and who is manager of the Laguna Heights water system stated that a good pulmotor would cost in the neighborhood of $2000, and that it would take an experienced operator to handle it. The conversation then turned to the fire fighting equipment and Skidmore stated that he would start the ball rolling by a donation of a Dodge chassis for immediate delivery. It was then figured that it would cost about $1500 cash to purchase full equipment to place on the chassis.

Some were of the opinion that this matter should be placed in the hands of a committee for investigation as to types of equipment, cost and desirability. Mr. Skidmore and Mr. Marshall urged immediate action on the part of the Chamber of Commerce and not wait until another fire starts. A committee consisting of Joe W. Skidmore, George S. McCue and A. B. Marshall was appointed for the purpose of determining the best kind of equipment and making the purchase.

A committee of three was then appointed to raise the funds with which to purchase this equipment. This committee consists of B. D. Peterson, chairman; George S. McCue and L. V. Murphy.

Dr. W. H. Rankin offered a donation of $25 to start things going and was followed by a number of other men present. B. D. Peterson pledged $100, Mr. Heisler pledged $150, the Mallow-Strang Drug company, Mr. J. S. Thurston, R. W. Peacock, Roppe & Mackey, Isch and West, L. V. Murphy, F. W. Conkey, J. W. Neal, for the Citizens' bank and Mr. Marshall each pledged an amount of $25 to this fund. There other pledges in and these will be published when the committee submits their next report.

Mr. L. V. Murphy, secretary of the Laguna beach sanitary district, asked permission of the Chamber of Commerce to use the fire truck at the time they burn the brush and weeds now on the garbage dumping grounds. Mr. Murphy explained that last year a very bad brush fire resulted by not having the fire truck on the ground when this brush was burned. The request was granted.

This meeting was marked by the fine spirit of co-operation shown and everyone pledged their support both morally and financially to the good of Laguna Beach.

100,000-FOOT SAWMILL WILL RISE NEAR SITKA

SEATTLE, Aug. 7.—A cargo sawmill of 100,000 feet capacity will be erected this fall near Sitka, Alaska, Hutton McNear and Dougherty, who have 2,500,000 feet of standing timber in Alaska from the government announced here today. This is to be the first step in creation of a project that is to include a plant turning out 300 tons a day of newsprint paper. These developments are to be carried on under a license granted by the federal power commission for the use of hydroelectric force of Cascade Creek, near Sitka, for 50 years.

U. S. Women Will Study Slav Health

NAB ALLEGED ATTACKER SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—Albert Hanberry, a laborer, was arrested here today charged with attacking an eleven year old girl. Police do not believe he is the "long nosed" man sought for weeks as the attacker of 14 little girls in a series of criminal assaults that have shocked the city.

The enraged cat sprang, but Douglas dodged and was able to keep it from closing in on him by whirling it around him at the end of the wire. Finally Douglas began to grow dizzy, and giving the wire a final swing, he hurled it against the cliff and dashed for his car. But the bobcat did not move.

RACING CAREER MATCHES PLAYED IN DOUBLES LOOP

JOHNSON IS STILL KING SAYS "BABE"

Doctor Says Sande Will Be Back In Saddle Next Year Good As Ever

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Earl Sande will ride again, unless "something at present absolutely unforeseen develops," his doctor said today.

The premier American jockey, badly hurt in a spill in the first race at Saratoga yesterday, will be booting home winners as ably as ever next year, according to Dr. D. C. Moriarity, who has charge of the case.

In the jumble of horses and riders piled up on the track, little Sande sustained a multiple fracture centering between the knee and the thigh of his left leg, as well as a possible fracture of one of the ribs on his left side. Much depends upon the grit of the rider and Sande has always shown plenty of that, the physician said. This cheering news heartened thousands of American heart-fain fans today, who had feared from the overnight reports that Sande's racing career might be over.

"I see no reason why the boy's leg should not be as good as ever when the injury heals," Dr. Moriarity told the United Press. "There will be nothing to prevent him riding again, although, of course, he certainly should not ride this year."

Bitty Evans Says

Is the baseball prowess of the American youth at a low ebb?

Is the national pastime suffering from a temporary dearth of material due to a number of causes?

It is the history of baseball that certain years are very prolific in producing real stars.

Then there comes an era of several years when the baseball crop is only ordinary. It runs in cycles.

During the past month I have talked with a dozen major league scouts; all of them discouraged and disgusted with the prospective material offered by the minors.

"The best ball players I have seen in action this summer are the old-timers, players who have either served in the majors or the better minor leagues."

I remarked a well-known major league scout, who for years has piloted big league clubs in both the American and National.

It is a rather interesting fact that a number of the leading stars of the American League made their debut about the same time. Most of these players will pass out together and their lot will be felt.

Ty Cobb, one of the outstanding stars, is playing his twentieth season. He says it will be his last as a regular.

Tris Speaker, brilliant outfielder and manager of the Cleveland club, has played almost as long. He cannot go on forever.

Eddie Collins' game's greatest second baseman, has been performing sensational for 19 years.

Walter Johnson, wonder pitcher, has been at it for 18 campaigns, and is having one of his best years. However, he threatens to retire and buy a minor league club.

These four great players are just a few of the many veteran stars in the American League who haven't long to go. A similar condition exists in the National.

Stars are made from the recruits. American League scouts have several big jobs ahead to fill the places of these veteran stars who will soon pass out of the picture.

AFTER TENNIS MATCHES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—Southern tennis enthusiasts are hoping to swing the annual east vs. west matches to Los Angeles this fall. In the event that the series is landed, Tilden, Richards, Alonso, the Kinsey brothers, "Little Bill" Johnson and Griffin will probably be seen in action.

Head of American Committee Advises Athletes to Keep In Condition

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—America's Olympic team which made such an impressive showing at the recent Paris games, had disbanded today and the champion athletes had scattered to all parts of the country.

Arriving late yesterday on the liner America the athletes were given a reception by the city and were then officially discharged by Col. Robert M. Thompson, president of the American Olympic committee.

"Keep in shape boys, work hard and we'll be together again in 1928," Col. Thompson said when he was taking leave of the athletes.

Officials of the team and the athletes expressed the opinion that the Olympic games were in no danger as a result of some of the outbreaks in Paris. They said the games were too big to be hurt by a little poor sportsmanship and they felt sure that Amsterdam would have just as many teams and just as many athletes as were entered at Paris.

American officials were assured before leaving Paris that Amsterdam would be able to organize and conduct the 1928 games.

L. B. MAN FLAYS BOOTLEGERS IN TALK

FULLERTON, Aug. 7.—Bootleggers, and their financial backers, were roundly scored by William McGinnis of Long Beach, former Chautauqua lecturer, in a straight-from-the-shoulder talk at the Rotary club luncheon yesterday afternoon.

"No one has a right to sing 'My Country 'Tis of These' unless he is willing to fight and even die for that country," the speaker declared.

"The primitive races can teach our cultured and so-called civilized white folks a whole lot about personal honor," McGinnis stated in warming to his subject. "We are in sore need of an awakening of the mind and conscience."

He told of instances that had come to his personal attention of Indians who had been allowed to make journeys by themselves while under homicide charges, of men of the same race who had been sentenced to death being allowed out on giving their word of honor to return, which they invariably did.

Warm tributes to the memory of the late Edward K. Benchley, as a friend and fellow Rotarian were paid at the luncheon by Charles C. Chapman, Wm. M. Irwin, F. C. Krause, Fred Strauss and C. B. Hutchinson, president of the Fullerton Rotary club.

SEWER BONDS AT LA HABRA PASSED

LA HABRA, Aug. 7.—By the overwhelming vote of 139 to 4, voters of the La Habra Sanitary district approved an additional bond issue of $75,000 for the purpose of connecting the La Habra sewer system with the joint outfit to the ocean.

As the figures indicate, not a heavy vote was polled. However, there was keen interest on the part of those favoring the bond issue, and autos were available during the day to take votes to the polls. There was no organized opposition, and it is thought more than probable that of the four who voted against the bonds there were some not fully informed as to the purpose of the issue.

This bond issue, on top of the $75,000 previously voted, means that La Habra will join with Santa Ana, Fullerton, Anaheim and other cities in a joint outfit to the ocean, which means a settlement of the city's sewage problem for all time to come. In the present project Buena Park and Fullerton will join with La Habra in building a line to connect with the outfit already constructed. Fullerton is now a part of the system, but some of the territory in the western part of the city cannot be served by the system as it now exists without pumping. By the three municipalities joining in building the new connection, the cost to La Habra will be reduced to a minimum.

BIBLE STUDENTS PARADE AT BREA

BREA, Aug. 7.—Children who are attending the Daily Vacation Bible school paraded through the main street of town Wednesday morning. The parade started from the Laurel grammar school building where the school is being held and proceeded to Pomona avenue, through the main business section.

The children stopped and sang some of their songs and saluted the American and the Christian flags. One hundred and sixty children participated in the parade. The present enrollment up to the present time is one hundred and seventy-five. Children are still enrolling. All who are planning to attend should enroll on or before the beginning of next week so they will not miss much work.

Don Shiner, the Brea motorcycle officer, was in Los Angeles Monday and Tuesday at the state compensation office. Mr. Shiner was injured quite seriously several weeks ago when he collided with a Ford roadster in Brea canyon and has not fully recovered. The state compensation board in examining him said he would be totally disabled for four more weeks.

Westminster Boy
Captures Bird
With Number, Band

WESTMINSTER, Aug. 7.—Carrier pigeons with identification marks are often found in Southern California but a different variety of bird with a band is being held here until word is received from some official source as to what shall be done with it.

The bird looks like an ordinary blackbird and was captured, after it had fallen exhausted, by Lorain Whitcomb, son of W. G. Whitcomb. The number on the band was 27227 and above the number was printed "Biol. Surv."

The bird has been given good care and seems to have become accustomed to do domestic life.

"I have before me your esteemed letter of July 30. I continue to give attention to the matter of Newport bay harbor improvement. I think the army board was favorably inclined after the showing we made. There should be no hesitation on the board's part to further the improvement, the urgent need for which was conclusively established.

"I shall be in the miraculous Southland this week, to spend ten days or more in looking into matters which may call for congressional action, such as harbors, public buildings, etc., and hope to be able to visit Newport Beach at a time convenient to you."

It is planned to take Senator Shortridge over the bay and detail to him the plans outlined for improvement. When the delegation visited Washington in December last to appear before the board of army engineers, Senator Shortridge joined the delegation and made the opening address on the subject of Orange county harbor.

His talk was followed by Congressman Phil D. Swing, who went into the subject fully and introduced the delegation from Orange county.

Francis Cuttle, of Riverside, with C. C. Chapman, of Fullerton, represented the board of supervisors.

The project is keen, because of the fact that these institutions would reap the chief benefit through the elimination of heavy losses suffered in money in transit.

As a matter of courtesy and convenience local banks are obliged to give their depositors credit at once on all checks deposited, although checks drawn on banks in other cities are not cleared for twelve hours if payable on a Los Angeles bank, thirty-six hours on San Francisco banks, and sixteen days on New York institutions.

Correspondents charge only two and one-half per cent interest on such deferred deposits, but the local banks not only pay that percentage, but cannot use such sums for loans, which command seven per cent.

Coolidge urging that the American around the world aviators finish their flight at Clover Field, Santa Monica, instead of at Seattle as is being advocated.

Action by individual chambers of the county along this line was decided upon at the Associated Chambers of Commerce meeting at Costa Mesa last Thursday night.

SENATOR PLANS VISIT SOON AT HARBOR

NEXTWEEK BEACH, Aug. 7.—Senator Samuel M. Shortridge will visit Newport bay in the next few days. In a letter to the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce the senator writes:

"I have before me your esteemed letter of July 30. I continue to give attention to the matter of Newport bay harbor improvement. I think the army board was favorably inclined after the showing we made. BANKERS URGE
AIR LINE TO UTAH CITY

ANAHEIM, Aug. 7.—Anaheim bankers have joined with a group in the Southland in a movement to establish an air mail line between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City. It became known here today. This would avoid many hours' delay due to San Francisco being the nearest transcontinental terminus at the present time.

BUILDING PERMITS AT BEACH INCREASE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 7.—Four building permits totaling $3700 were issued from the building permit department here yesterday. Up to yesterday no permits for building in the city had been issued.

A permit for $3400 for the addition of two buildings and three rooms at the high school headed the list. The building will be used as a domestic science department and will consist of a modern up-to-date bungalow. C. G. Crawford is doing the building.

Other permits were issued to Mrs. Cary Crane of 519 Seventh street for an addition of a store room to her residence. The cost of the improvement was estimated to cost about $200. Catching Brothers, contractors, will do the work. J. Schwartz, 138 Main street, was granted a permit to install a glass front in his store. The improvement will cost $100.

HUNTINGTON BEACH PERSONAL ITEMS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 7.—Charles F. Lummiss, president of the Costa Mesa school board, has completed preparations for beautifying the school grounds, it was announced here today.

The trustees, it was said, had arranged with U. E. Fowler, landscape architect of Santa Ana, a contract for preparing plans and specifications for beautification of the grounds, part of which will be improved this year and the remainder next year.

It was understood that the supervisors would gravel the roads around the school property.

Work now is in progress for paving two miles of Fairview avenue, the unimproved portion of the highway between Costa Mesa and Mexico. Andrews declared that conditions were not good but were very quiet in the eastern states but that in Texas and the general south the conditions were rapidly growing better. He spent about two weeks in Mexico.

William Horn of McAllen, Texas, returned with Andrews to spend a part of the summer here.

PLACENTIA CHAMBER GOES ON RECORD FAVORING LOCATION IN COUNTY OF U. OF C. BRANCH

PLACENTIA, Aug. 7.—A resolution which heartily opposed the centralization of the division of subtropical horticulture of the University of California in Riverside was passed yesterday by the board of directors of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce.

The board of directors, in a communication with the Board of Regents of the University stated, in their resolution, that they were in favor of the centralization of the subtropical division, but only to a suitable location for the Southern branch of the University.

The Placentia Chamber stated that they appreciated the fact that the matter was already in the hands of the Associated Chambers of Commerce.

Realizing the possibilities of Costa Mesa as a textile manufacturing district, Jack Wright, president of the Chamber of Commerce of that city, has issued a call for a meeting of all industrial boosters in the community for the purpose of discussing the possibilities of establishing knitting mills.

Local talent, musical, dancing, and entertaining numbers will be furnished during the afternoon and evening Saturday, it was announced by James Morris, chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

Miss Neil Mitchell, local girl, who is very popular for her negro impersonations and clever playing, will be one of the features of the program both during the afternoon and evening.

"Shorty" Spears dance orchestra from the Clyde Musgrave dance hall here will furnish the concert music during the evening instead of the Municipal band.

The NERVOUS WRECK

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sally Morgan has to go 35 miles from her father's ranch to catch a train for the east. Sheriff Wreck, her dancier, is unable to ride with her to the station. So the "Nervous Wreck," an eccentric young easterner, visiting at the ranch, offers to take her in his little automobile.

The sheriff ridicules the suggestion, but Sally and the Wreck set off alone over the rough, uncertain trail. Running out of gasoline, the Wreck is refused a loan of five gallons by the owner of a passing car. The Wreck holds them up at the point of a gun, forcibly takes the five gallons and leaves them with the same amount after adding the cost of a few coins. To cap the climax, the Wreck makes the large man in the car crank his machine before starting out.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

He reached over, threw the switch, and the engine was off with a night-splitting clatter. The big man staggered weakly toward the side of the road. His gait was accelerated when a mud guard nudged him roughly as the driver sprang into life. They heard him shout something; it sounded like a threat, although they could not catch the words. Then the Wreck took a solid grip on the wheel and began to drive.

Once Sally looked behind her. The headlights of the motionless car had faded to small points. She glanced at the Wreck. It was not possible to see his face clearly, but she could imagine the expression. He would be gritting his teeth and staring truculently at the road, quite in his glory. It was five minutes before she spoke, and then she cut loose.

"You've done it now!" she exclaimed. "You sure have fixed the pair of us this time. Have you gone stark mad?"

"Don't argue," advised the Wreck.

"Don't you know what you've done? Don't you realize anything? Do you think you can get away with a thing like that? Why, you've committed a crime! And if they catch us—"

She left the sentence unfinished, for it was leading to things too awful for contemplation.

"Who in blazes is going to catch us?" he demanded. "They won't. I'll take them half an hour to blow up those tires, and they'll burn pretty nearly a gallon of gas doing it. That'll leave them about four gallons, and after fifteen miles or so they'll go dead, like we were. Don't you worry about getting caught."

Sally shook her head in despair. "Why, we'll be caught before daylight!"

"Bet you five dollars."

"Tomorrow, anyway" she went on, ignoring his challenge. "And they'll have a perfectly good case against us. You held them up with a gun—my gun."

"They ought to have been held up. They had it coming to them. They ought to have been shot full of bullets," said the Wreck fiercely.

Sally was angry, but of course he could not see that. She sat with her fists clenched and her lips set tight.

The flivver went on steadily through the night.

CHAPTER VIAn Act of Providence

IT was after sun-up when he aroused her by a touch on the arm. Sally's eyes blinked rapidly as she straightened in the seat. The flivver was moving along at a slow pace, intended to promote the comfort of a sleeping passenger.

"Morning," said the Wreck. "Sorry to wake you, but I wanted your expert opinion."

"Morning," yawned Sally; then shook herself into full wakefulness and inspected him. "Have you been driving all night?"

If he had, she was prepared to acknowledge a tremendous respect for his endurance, for he was not flying any signals of weariness. But he shook his head with a grin.

"I stopped for awhile, after you got asleep. I didn't need any sleep; I just can't sleep. But I let the engine cool out. There wasn't any hurry, anyhow."

"Nobody passed us?" She asked anxiously.

The Wreck shook his head and laughed. He was in fine spirits for a man with guilt on his soul. "What I wanted to ask you about was this wire fence," he said. "We've been following it for a couple of miles. What's it mean?"

Sally inspected the fence, which followed the line of the road.

"It's somebody's wire, of course," she answered. "It means there must be a ranch around somewhere."

"Do they have breakfast at ranches?"

"They better had!"

"My idea, too," he said. "Whereabouts would this ranch lie, reckoning without the aid of any mountains or other visible landmarks?"

That brought a smile to her face. Plainly, the Wreck was in excellent fettle this morning. He was disposed to be almost playful.

"I'd say it's on the same side of the road as the fence," replied Sally. "And if we haven't passed any gate yet, we'd better keep on until we hit one. There's sure to be one."

He nodded and continued to drive, while Sally studied the country. It was not mountainous, but decidedly hilly, and she knew at a glance that it must lie at a considerable distance from the Bar-M.

Presently her thoughts returned to the big car and its passengers, and she caught herself looking backward over the rolling road, wondering what had become of them.

"Here's a gate," said the Wreck. "There was more than a gate. There was a plain road, running under it and off into the hills beyond. Without waiting for a consultation, he climbed down, opened the gate, then drove the flivver through. He was going straight ahead when Sally stopped him.

"Always close the gates after you out in this country," she said, jumping out. "They're put there for a reason. Cattle."

"I was in a hurry for breakfast," he explained.

A PUZZLE A DAY

"Ma Kept a Lion"
Little Willie had a bad habit of picking up everything he laid his hands on; one day he made a trip to the zoo, and brought a young lion home with him, so his mother kept the animal for him in the back yard.

The puzzle, however, is this: re-arrange the letters in the statement "Ma kept a lion," and you can form a single word which will tell you little Willie's greatest fault.

Yesterday's Answer

The first player pocketed the three striped balls, which were numbered 13, 14 and 15, a total of 42. The second player won the plain colored balls, numbers 1, 2 and 3, a total of 6. Six is the lowest possible total with three balls; 42 the highest, and hence the only possible arrangement by which three balls could produce a total seven times as great as three other balls. In pool, balls 9-15 are always striped; so the winning player must have won the striped balls.

THE IMMIGRATION VESTIBULE

In recent years Canada has been a sort of vestibule to the United States, as far as immigration is concerned. Immigrants finding it hard to gain access to this country directly have gone to Canada and then, at the earliest opportunity, crossed the border. When they came openly, they generally came as Canadian citizens.

More immigrants than ever are expected to enter Canada from now on, because the new American immigration law makes higher barriers and lower quotas, and it will be natural for a good deal of the European emigration wave headed westward to flow into the dominion.

Canada wants that. She welcomes immigrants as much as we do, though she is a little more "choosy" about their quality than we are. She needs them to fill up her great agricultural areas and to work in her developing industries. Canada has almost every requisite for great wealth except population. And her efforts in that direction have not succeeded very well in late years, because of the great exodus of her residents, old and new, into the United States.

Now Canada is taking steps to retard that movement. She has a new law requiring five years' residence for citizenship. Thus any immigrant whose real destination is the states will have to tarry for at least five years. Canada hopes to be able to hold those who have remained that long.

Prosperity is a situation in which everybody pays everybody else high prices for everything.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

The success of Orange, especially, and that of other towns in Orange County in securing manufacturing industries should be—and we believe, generally speaking, that it is—a source of satisfaction to Santa Ana. For if Santa Ana is to be developed industrially on a sound and permanent basis it must be done on its own merits and in well balanced proportion with the whole of Orange County—certainly not in competition with any other town or section. Every substantial industry established anywhere in this county improves the chances of Santa Ana for securing such industries.

Look at Los Angeles. It has long been a wonder city. We have all heard it said that "it can't keep up," yet we have seen it go ahead year after year. Probably the secret of its success is due to a definite policy on the part of its Chamber of Commerce to encourage industrial development, not only in Los Angeles but in the surrounding territory for 250 miles. The directors of the chamber knew that Los Angeles would grow in proportion to the growth of Southern California, and the broad policy which they adopted is bearing fruit today in a remarkably prolific manner. Other cities would do well to get the "industrial idea" and push it on the same progressive lines as Los Angeles.

Remember how in the good old days a woman "could do anything with a hairpin?" Since bobbed hair has come in, how can women ever maintain their old reputation along mechanical lines?

WASTED PEACHES

An efficient nation should be ashamed of such news as that recently sent out from the peach region in Georgia—and from other sections of the country at other times. Recent dispatches have announced that within a period of 10 days peach growers in Georgia have thrown away approximately 4,000,000 bushels of peaches, or 8,000 cars.

The reason for such wholesale waste is that the entire crop ripened at once this year and glutted the market to such an extent that growers could not get even shipping prices for them.

In Macon, on July 21, peaches sold for eight cents a basket, not enough to pay for the baskets or crates in which they are packed, and leaving no allowance for picking, packing and hauling.

And all the while there are millions of people who need the fresh fruit and who cannot get it, or who need the canned fruit in the winter and cannot afford to buy it.

There is certainly nothing very efficient or praiseworthy in such a situation. The growers can not be blamed particularly, or the shippers, or consumers. All, however, have a degree of responsibility and, until they realize it and co-operate in solving such problems, all will have to suffer directly or indirectly from the situation.

GRAIN PRICES, UP AND DOWN

Wheat rises spectacularly in price, and the joyful farmers thereupon prepare to plant wheat more heavily in the fall and spring.

It is perfectly natural thing to do, in the circumstances. It is human nature, out of which springs economic law. Every man, seeing profit ahead along a certain line, wants to follow that line and make more profit. So groups of men, operating as individuals of their own free choice, proceed to defeat their own good luck and change the situation.

Wheat commanded high prices during the war and for some time afterward. That led inevitably to the planting of a large acreage in wheat. Wheat production increased to such an extent that, when the abnormal war demand fell off, prices slumped. Now small production has resulted in higher prices. Higher prices will make larger production. Larger production in turn will bring lower prices.

It is the eternal cycle which works in industry as it does in agriculture. And it will continue as long as any class of producers are more concerned with immediate profits than with steady profits over a long period.

GASOLINE STATIONS

The gasoline filling station business, says the head of a big company, is being overdone. A casual survey of the general situation suggests that he is right. Figures uphold him.

Service stations have multiplied with startling rapidity in the last few years and are still multiplying, in every thriving community. They invade every business street and many a residence street. They appear unexpectedly in the most out-of-the-way places, lying in wait for the tourist trade, which comes wherever roads are good, or wherever bad roads lead to important places. Rivalry is keen. If there is little or no competition in price, for the same grade of gasoline or oil, there is competition enough in service, which is what the trade wants.

But the service becomes expensive with the multiplication of stations and the installation of elaborate equipment. In one city half a cent on every gallon goes for rent of the ground space, alone, not to mention the overhead cost of the outfit and the men in charge, and the expense of transporting supplies.

The stations make money, but less than they would if there were fewer of them. The driving public likes the stations sprinkled around rather plentifully, for reasons of convenience, but any particular driver grows less enthusiastic when a station invades his neighborhood and lowers the value of his property or spoils a fine view.

Couldn't the department of agriculture develop an insect that would mow the lawn without bothering the shrubbery?

A FAKE PROGRESSIVE

Kansas City Star

La Follette, "progressive." What a travesty on an honored name. As The Star's Washington correspondent pointed out this morning, the La Follette "progressives" of today are fundamentally opposed to the great principles the Roosevelt progressives stood for in 1912.

Above everything the Progressives who followed Roosevelt were nationalists. They put the welfare of the whole country above the interest of any group. So in the tremendous conflict leading up to the World War Roosevelt was the leader of the nationalistic forces that insisted on the defense of American rights.

In contrast La Follette's appeal is all to groups that are supposed to be discontented. "We demand a square deal for every man in the national interest," declared the real Progressives of 1912. "We demand a special privilege for this group or that," exclaim the fake progressives of 1924. In the years of uncertainty from 1914 to 1917 Roosevelt kept preaching the code of national honor, La Follette the code of national dishonor.

La Follette was the leader in the filibuster against the armed ship bill. When the war resolution came before the senate in April, 1917, it was La Follette who prevented immediate action by invoking the senate rule that the matter go over for a day. When the vote came La Follette was with the little minority that voted against the war declaration. Not content with giving this comfort to the enemy he made his St. Paul speech in September of the same year, criticizing the government's course and going out of his way to defend the sinking of the Lusitania, in which so many American lives were lost.

His course was such that there came demands from every part of the country that he be expelled from the senate, and he narrowly escaped.

It is the same La Follette, still seeking to capitalize discontent, always trying to appeal to a special interest against the national interest, always striking out on a course that will promote his personal ambition, no matter at what expense to the general welfare, who has flattered the name "progressive" for his personally conducted movement.

Progressive? Bosh!

Protect Americans

Pasadena Star-News

The United States Government has an embarrassing situation to face, in dealing with the murder of American Vice-Consul Imbrie, by Persian fanatics. The Government at Washington has made very vigorous and stern representations to the Persian Government, demanding adequate monetary reparations.

This country is embarrassed for two reasons: It is pacific in its attitude toward all countries, and yet it cannot let its citizens be murdered with impunity—for if Persia were left lightly, there might be a succession of violent outrages against Americans in different countries. This country is embarrassed, too, because Persia is a small country, and this Nation does not want to appear to be coercing another country. But, on the other hand, the United States cannot have its citizens outraged, even though the outrage occur in a small country. Americans must be secure in person and property, wherever they may choose to reside or to travel abroad. This warning given to Persia should serve to warn all other countries, in the same manner and to the same effect.

That Body of Yours

BETTER HEALTH

When you think of the great number of people crowded on the little island called England, you are apt to think that they would push one another off into the sea. And yet it is really only in London with its teeming millions, and a couple of other cities, that there is really much congestion.

A few miles out of London and you are in the quiet green fields, and the fine country roads and lanes. And what about the health of these people? Why, the death rate for 1923 was the lowest in the entire history of England, "better even than when the population was only half the present figure."

Two reasons are assigned for this:

First, the health officers take their work very seriously, and from the baby in the cradle, to the industrial worker in the factory, there is supervision, with the sanitary education for the individual that goes with this supervision. The late hours in the retail stores, and the overtime work in the factories, are now becoming the exception instead of the rule.

Everywhere throughout the land the thought of health looms larger in the minds of the people, than does the thought or idea of wealth. A hike in the country means more to an English child than a visit to the movies. In other words, the outdoors is the first love of the English people.

The second reason for better health and lower death rate is said to be due to improvement in the food of the British people. England is an island, and depends upon her foreign trade for much of her raw and manufactured materials. And she has learned to eat the foods from all parts of the world brought to her by ships.

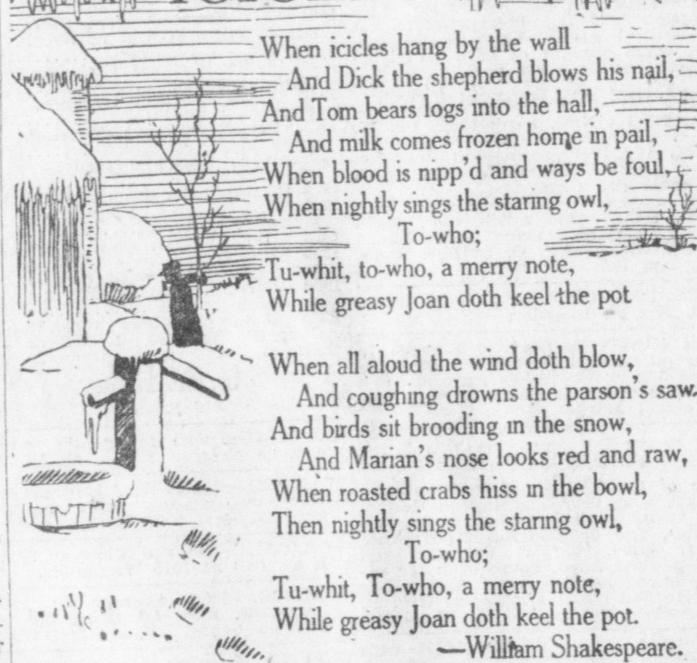

Meat, eaten once a week in former years, is now eaten at least once a day by almost everybody. This is possible on account of the outdoor life of the people. English people have always been fond of vegetables, and their market places are just hives of industry on market days. But the big thing about the English people is that they live health and everything is done that will give them a chance to get outdoors.

Little Benny's Note Book

by Lee Pope

Ma came home with a little wrapped up package today, I sayin' Wats that, ma, anything for me? No, its a patent ash receiver for your father, ma sed. You press a little thing and the ashes disappear, its reely too cunning for anything. I thawt as long as he insists on smokin' he mite as well have one of these, although they cost a dollar and 39 cents apeecie, they have the advantage of time for reflection and distance for perspective.

In general, the replies might be placed under two general headings—those that find in the war a distinct gain in the overthrow of autocracy and those that think its one gift to the world is the awakening of an international conscience which realizes the futility of war and sees the only way out through international co-operation.

While the replies as a whole are not particularly optimistic, they do show an upward curve from that slough of cynicism that followed so closely upon the spirit of optimism and exaltation that was dominant

And after supper pop sat down in his morriss chair and put his feet up and me and ma started to wait for him to take out a cigar. Wich he didnt' and after a while he sed, Well, mother, do you know Im not smokin'?

Yes, I was jest noticing that, do you want me to lite a match for you? ma sed, and pop sed. No, thanks, nobody needs to lite emy matches for me any more. I've sworn off for good. I didnt' smoke all day today and it was easier than I thawt it would be, and I've carriyng a cupple in my pocket just to test my will power, he sed.

Well for pity sakes, ma sed.

Wat? You dont' seem as pleased as I expected, after trying to get me to quit smoking by fair meens or fowl for the last 10 years pop sed.

A dollar 39, ma sed.

How much? Wat mystic figure is that? pop sed, and ma sed. Thats what this patent ash receiver cost me ony this afternoon. And she took it from in back of her, saying, A dollar 39, and now you tell me you're not going to smoke emy more, well of all things, Why didnt' you tell me before I went and got you this? she sed.

O, wats a use? pop sed. And he took a cigar out of his pocket and bit the end off saying, Will power be darned, let the smoke be unconfined. Wich he did.

The Cause of Truth

By Thomas Fuller

I could suffer myself to be rudely handled by my friend, so much as to tell me that I am a fool, and talk I know not of what. I love stout expressions amongst brave men, and to have them speak as they think. We must fortify and harden our hearing against this tenderness of the ceremonious sound of words.

I have a strong and manly familiarity in conversation: a friendship that flatters itself in the sharpness and vigor of communication, like love in biting and scratching. It is not vigorous enough if it be not quarrelsome; if civilized and artificial; if it treads nicely, and fears the shock.

When anyone contradicts me, he raises my attention, not my anger; I advance towards him that controverts, that instructs me. The cause of truth ought to be the common cause of one and the other. ***

I embrace and caress truth in what hand soever I find it, and cheerfully surrender myself and my conquered arms, as far off as I can discover it, and, provided it be not too imperiously.

take a pleasure in being reproved; and accommodate myself to my accusers, very often more by way of civility than amendment, loving to gratify and nourish the liberty of admonition by my facility of submitting to it. ***

In earnest, I rather choose the frequentation of those that ruffle me than those that fear me. 'Tis a dull and hurtful pleasure to have to do with people who admire us and approve of all we say.

COMING TO THE POINT

A pretty girl had a corpulent suitor. It appears that the stout lover went on his knees to propose in the old-fashioned manner. Even this romantic attitude, however, did not soften the girl's mood, and she promptly refused him.

"Well, Marie," said the fat one, still on his knees, "if you will not accept my offer, you might at least help me up."—Edinburgh Scotsman.
